Wine Making Process:

The grapes were harvested as clusters of small fruit late in the season, when the flavors of the fruit are concentrated and the sugar level is high. This enables the production of a full-bodied wine. A portion of the grapes undergoes fermentation as whole clusters to allow for the development of a greenish character, with fresh, aromatic, grassy tannins. Following fermentation, we increase the temperature of the tank and they undergo hot maceration with their skins for two weeks, giving the wine a rich texture. The wine ages for 18 months in French oak barrels, where most of the barrels are new.

Winemaker's Notes:

A wine the color of deep purple, imbued with the aromas of sweet pine, eucalyptus, red fruits, and a delicate hint of black pepper. The wine matures in oak barrels, of which half are new, resulting in a vanilla and dark chocolate fragrance. The wine has a balanced acidity emphasizing the rich flavors of the Syrah grape with soft, round, velvety tannins accompanying a full-bodied wine. The taste reveals plum, cherry, and a nuance of eucalyptus, which were also present in the initial aromas. The wine continues maturing in the glass, developing enticing earthy flavors, together with a touch of leather and hints of tobacco.
